

Homegrown Eats

Dig into the process of taking food from the farm to your table.

Event Components:

This prerecorded event explores the industry of farm-to-table entrepreneurs and the process of planting, growing, harvesting, and selling products to the general public.

Service Area:

Family and Consumer Sciences

Audience:

Iowa Students

State Standards Covered:

- HS/FCS 6.1.4 - Analyze the effects of global, regional, and local events and conditions on food choices and practices.
- HS/FCS 11.3.4 - Assess the influence of cultural, socioeconomic and psychological factors on food and nutrition and behavior.

For Educators & Students:

Pre-Event Questions to Consider

- What factors need to be considered when selecting the type of produce to grow?
- What steps need to be taken to take a product from farm to market?

Post-Event Questions to Consider

- How do socioeconomic conditions change the price of products?
- What guidelines need to be met to take a product to market?
- How do small communities benefit from farmers markets?